Local Eco Tour!

Press Release: June 23, 2008

Many people have lived in Michigan all their life and have never traveled or explored the destinations this great state has to offer. Michigan is known for being a Great Lakes state and for all the natural beauty it consists. Do not wait another day. Get outdoors and take an eco tour and experience for yourself what Michigan has to offer!

Michigan consists of 94 state parks. Many of which are located within Oakland Country. There are also 13 Huron-Clinton Metro Parks. Plus, there are several destinations conveniently located in West Bloomfield that can be reached by the miles of pathways.

All Michigan parks provide a diversity of recreational activities. This includes camping, hiking, biking, wildlife viewing, fishing, horseback riding, boating, and historical landmarks. All visitor fees go to the state of Michigan and contribute to protecting the natural resources.

There are also several exhibits to visit in Michigan. The Detroit Science Center, the Detroit Zoo, and the Air Zoo, which is located in Portage, allow visitors to learn hands-on. The Air Zoo is mainly based on aviation and outer space. The Detroit Science Center is based on technology, engineering, and other areas of science and the Detroit Zoo is based on ecology. The Detroit Zoo allows visitors to see how wildlife interconnects and the importance of protecting habitats.

Whether you are interested in learning about Michigan's environment or experiencing it do not wait another day. Get out and take an eco tour and see for yourself what the Great Lakes State has to offer.
